2017 SEASON

Martha's Vineyard, called "Noepe" or "In the Midst of the Sea" by the Wampanoag Tribe, is 20 miles long & 9 miles wide, and hosts 6 distinctive towns, each with its own character. From the 1900s to the 1950s, more than 50 percent of the land was in farming, and up to a dozen farms supplied all of the milk, most of the eggs, and some of the meat consumed by Islanders and summer residents. Today, the Island hosts 3 dozen produce farms, several with meat and dairy offerings, and a new shellfish farm industry. Take a drive, bike or long walk to explore the bounty the Island offers, experiencing the stories and heritage of the Island – first hand.
